Hochschulzugangsberechtigung (HBZ) / Higher Education Entrance Qualification

This is a general term for certificates from the school and higher education sector that qualify you for studies at a German university. This mainly refers to the school-leaving certificate that allows you to study in your home country. Depending on your country of origin, your HBZ for German universities may only be valid in combination with a university entrance examination and/or periods of study in your home country.

Further Information on the CEFR (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) can be obtained here: <https://www.daad.de/en/studying-in-germany/living-in-germany/cefr/>. All European and non-European students who do not have any language certificate available may self-categorize their language proficiency based on the definition of each language level provided by the website. All students with available proof of their linguistic proficiency in German or English must include a copy of the language certificate into their application and provide it to Hochschule Koblenz via OLAT.
